

Synopsis:

Spanning more than a century, this is the extraordinary tale, told in her own words, of Lucy Mardsen who in 1984 at the age of 99 was the nation’s oldest widow of a Confederate soldier.

Told in flashbacks through her reminiscences and those of her now deceased soldier husband, the story becomes a personal roadmap to much of the history of this country’s last century.

Target Audience: Women 35+

Notable Cast/Crew: Diane Lane, Anne Bancroft, Donald Sutherland, Cicely Tyson, Blythe Danner, E.G. Marshall and Gwen Verdon.

Key selling points:

- A must-see for any Diane Lane fan and her portrayal of or anyone interested in a woman's viewpoint of the Civil War.
- Adapted from Allan Gurganus's 1989 book of the same name.
- Winner of 4 Emmy® Awards
- Art Direction, Costume Design, Hairstyling and Outstanding Supporting Actress for Cicely Tyson

This movie falls in the category with some of the great ones like "Driving Miss Daisy", "Fried Green Tomatoes" and "Steel Magnolias."
