

Synopsis:

Get ready for the ultimate adventure with these horse-themed feature films packed with fast-paced fun!

Casey’s Shadow – 1978 – Rated PG – Walter Matthau

Struggling to raise his three sons on his own, a poor Cajun horse trainer (Walter Matthau) sees the chance of a lifetime in their two-year-old colt, Casey's Shadow. A promising winner, Shadow is entered into the All-American Futurity Race, and the weeks leading up to the spectacular event contribute to the bitter, humorous, and ultimately poignant conclusion to this delightful family film.

The Red Fury – 1984 –Rated PG – Will Jordan, Katherine Cannon, Alan Hale Jr.

A young boy befriends a widowed horse trainer who teaches him the tricks of the trade in this inspiring story of unlikely friendship and the wild stallion that changes their lives forever.

All the Pretty Horses – 2000 – Rated PG-13 – Matt Damon, Penelope Cruz, Henry Thomas

Academy Award®-winner Matt Damon stars in director Billy Bob Thornton's action filled tale of love and loss based on Cormac McCarthy's best-selling novel. Two Texas cowboys head to Mexico in search of adventure and find work as horse wranglers, but soon find themselves in trouble with the law after one of them falls in love with a wealthy rancher's daughter (Penélope Cruz).

The Return of October – 1948 – Not Rated – Glenn Ford, Terry Moore, James Gleason

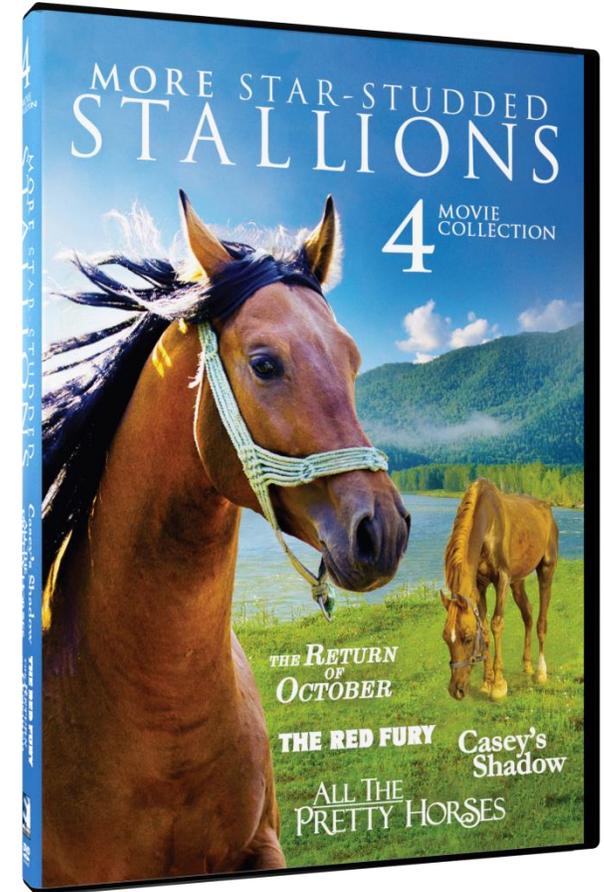

This is the warm-hearted story of a wholesome Terry Moore, whose late uncle Willie (James Gleason) is reincarnated as a thoroughbred horse. At least, as far as Ms. Moore is concerned, he is. The horse's name is October. Moore is tried for insanity, then becomes the subject of a book by a top psychologist (Glenn Ford), who falls in love with his subject.

Target Audience: All Ages
