

“For a quality time, go West” – The Los Angeles Times

Synopsis:

After suffering a heart attack – and a major midlife crisis – a Chicago lingerie salesman (played by Emmy® and Golden Globe winner Beau Bridges) says adios to the big city and pursues his dream of becoming a cowboy.

He uproots his less-than-enthusiastic family, heads West in search of his inner hombre, and soon discovers that the beautiful Flying Tumbleweed Ranch he bought from a brochure has seen far better days and its only resident is a crusty, ex-con ranch hand (Lloyd Bridges). It’s going to take a lot more than Hart’s cowboy can-do spirit for him and his family to tame this new frontier!
