

Synopsis:

The ultimate western hero, Charles Starrett held the record at his retirement in 1952 for most feature films with 131. Most of those were as the cowboy character THE DURANGO KID, a masked vigilante who fought for justice and thwarted the evil plans of looters, land-grabbers, claim-jumpers, and the like on the range. With sidekick Smiley Burnette, the pair were the top B-movie stars who packed a punch and ruled the West.
